Q Given the COVID-19 pandemic, universities have widely adopted remote learning. The use of Video on Demand (VOD) and e-learning, which allow students to view course content online at any time, has also expanded. Considering traditional in-person lectures as well, which type of lecture format do you believe is most effective for medical school courses? Discuss from the perspectives of learning effectiveness, student comprehension, and engagement, and provide specific reasons to support your argument in approximately 300 words.
